Activity schedule is packed Bi-C Week here

Bicentennial Week opens today (Sunday), and if you think any other area community is one up on Georgetown in its plans for celebrating the nation's 200th birthday, think again. The schedule is jam-packed for the next seven days.

In fact, things get under way this very afternoon, with an Ethnic Night Festival in Georgetown's San Gabriel Park Community Building from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Co-sponsored by the Georgetown Women's Political Caucus and the local Bicentennial Commission, the festival will present a kaleidoscope of the cultures that have combined over more than a century to form Georgetown (see story below).

SQUARE DANCING will be the entertainment event for Tuesday night. The Georgetown Shirts and Skirts Square Dance Club will perform on the outdoor dance floor in the park beginning at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Professional dance caller Cecil J. Dunman of Austin will direct the activities, with callers from Temple, Killeen, and maybe even San Antonio chipping in from time to time.

The popular square dance technique won't be taught Tuesday night, but anyone who considers himself a square dancer is urged to get in on the fun. A crowd is expected for the free event open to the public, including a large group of square-dancing teens. Can't dance? Come out and watch.

Everyone will get an opportunity to catch their breath between Tuesday and Friday, the day of the Georgetown Country Fair. Judging by the weekend activities already lined up for July 2, 3, and 4, everyone will need a breather before gearing up for those three days.

The Country Fair will offer area residents a chance to display everything from their best needlework and baked goods, to their prettiest home-grown flowers and even their best field crops. Also to be exhibited at the day-long Bicentennial activity will be arts and crafts and American antiques.

"There are an awful lot of talented people in the Georgetown area, and we hope most of them will participate in Friday's Country Fair," said Mrs. Jo Ann Morse, co-chairman of the Georgetown Bicentennial Commission. "We think the Country Fair is a perfect way to start off our Fourth of July weekend celebration."

the passing glance

By Don Scarbrough

Some of our local folks were wide-eyed after Thursday's issue of the Taylor paper came out with an editorial saying the Williamson County Fair and Show building should be put in Taylor and the annual event moved to that town.

Our Nel Persky has a comprehensive roundup on this subject for today's SUNDAY SUN and I expect more will follow next week.

While the Georgetown Hospital Authority has received word that its application for a federal loan was approved in Washington, the Wesleyan folks are still on "hold" these fading days of June, waiting for action on their loan application. Both organizations badly need money to start their building programs.

Approval of the application, believed to be a certainty, could come immediately or only after a long delay, as could allocation of funds for the new hospital. We can all hope for the immediate approval, but keep your fingers crossed.

ONE SUGGESTION for the July 4 Bicentennial observance is for the nation to pause and observe silence for 200 seconds "... 200 seconds of meditation or prayer to symbolize 200 years of American history. During this three minutes and 20 seconds, each individual would think his own thoughts about America, perhaps looking back, or considering the present and reflecting on the future." Suggested time for this united prayer — Independence Day, 1976 at 12 noon CDT.

Our readers will find SUN SPOTS TV in the center section today.

It has been enlarged to 8 tabloid pages. Slip it out and fold it down to half page size. Then, you'll have to take a pair of scissors or a very sharp fingernail (we don't recommend this procedure) and clip off the top, so that it works as an 8 page paper.

You'll find a lot more information in this section this week. We hope you like it and use it all week long.

Georgetown Fair & Show site disputed

Plans to construct a livestock show and fair building in San Gabriel Park were reaffirmed at a called meeting of the Williamson County Fair and Show Association Thursday night despite a Taylor Area Chamber of Commerce resolution proposing that building plans be moved to Taylor.

In special session Tuesday afternoon the Taylor group passed a resolution noting that county commissioners had recently allocated $100,000 for construction of a new building for the entire county. Their resolution also maintained that the Taylor area is the center of the county's agricultural area and that a majority of the purchase money spent on animals shown by county youth comes from Taylor.

In addition, the Wednesday Taylor Daily

Press carried a front page editorial stating, "Since the building will be used for agricultural purposes it would seem only logical to have it as close as possible to the agricultural center of the county."

"Without a doubt, Taylor is the agricultural center of Williamson County."

"GEORGETOWN is centrally located and the most logical place for it to be built," County Commissioner Wesley Foust presented a counter-argument. "Farming land is east of Georgetown and ranch land is west of Georgetown."

The editorial also compared total sales from the Williamson County Livestock Association sale in Georgetown and Taylor's livestock show. However, while over $49,000 in sales was Georgetown's Ethnic Festival starts at 5 p.m. Sunday when members of the various cultures which make up Georgetown's heritage open ethnic displays in the San Gabriel Park Community Center.

Ethnic Night salutes heritage

Pictures and books will display the history of the Wesley Chapel-AME Church and black history; authentic cooking utensils are among exhibits planned for the Mexican-American area of the Center.

Other items on display will include authentic costumes worn by members of the various cultures and hand-carved candleholders from Sweden.

AMONG THE MOST ATTRACTIVE displays at each booth are sure to be the food items, ranging from tamales and chitlins to coffee cake and Swedish meatballs. Food will be sold in bit-sized tastes as well as in larger take-home portions. No admission will be charged.

Entertainment will include 6 and 7:45 p.m. performances by singer Stephanie Dory, a Southwestern University student. At 6:30 p.m. the "Harmony Honeyes" will sing American folk songs, with a Swedish choir performing at 7 p.m. please turn to page 12

Hospital application approved

The Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA) has approved the Georgetown Hospital Authority's application for a $3 million loan to construct a new Area Hospital. GHA President Jay Sloan announced this week.

"What its means is that the Washington office has okayed the application and hospital construction plan we sent through its Temple office," said Sloan. "and the Temple office is now authorized to allocate the money."

Those funds are not in hand yet, he added. The Hospital Authority is anxiously awaiting news that the loan has been allocated, hopefully before June 30, next Wednesday.

The Authority has a firm construction bid good through that date, so the timing of the allocation is all-important.

Meanwhile, Hospital Fund Drive Chairman J. H. Compton announced that the continuing fund campaign has raised $419,071.44 to date, with more expected. "Things look great, but we'd still like to hear from anyone who hasn't contributed yet," he said.

The SUN will continue to list the names of donors throughout the length of the fund campaign. Some donors whose names have recently been submitted include:

Week's news in a nutshell

Taylor's city manager, J. W. Dodson, told council members he was tired of the "riding" he was taking at their hands and turned in his resignation at the end of what the Taylor Daily Press described as "an unusually peaceful work session" Tuesday morning. He said he was being criticized over minor matters to such an extent that he was unable to do a real job as city manager, that his health was affected and he "was giving the job back" to the council. "You are paid to hear those gripes," Mayor Calvin Janek told him. "We aren't mad at you when we relay them (the gripes) to you, but we feel your department heads have let you down in not attending to their business. If they thought as much of you as you do of them, they would get their jobs done instead of falling down on those jobs."

A MEETING IN TAYLOR of representatives from Taylor, Rockdale, Granger, Thrall, Buckholts, Thorndale and Round Rock in Taylor Monday evening was for the purpose of discussing the possible use of water from the Granger Lake for municipal purposes. Financing of such a project would probably be available through the State Water Development Board, the group was told.

Stories that former President Nixon had a drinking problem were false, H. R. Haldeman said in his series of articles now running in dailies across the country. Nixon, he said, drank very little, but in the evening would become extremely tired. In this condition, after drinking half a glass of beer, he would be thick-tongued and

Walsh names two goals for DA job

by NEL PERSKY

Ed Walsh is already working to be a better district attorney.

And he hasn't even taken office yet.

Walsh, who received the Democratic nomination during countywide runoff voting June 5, faces the November general election unopposed.

Although he won't take office until January 1, Walsh has already researched procedures in the Travis County district attorney's office and is making arrangements to visit the Fort Worth district attorney as well. "I intend to go to some counties smaller than those — our size," he adds.

While he is not yet familiar enough with day-to-day details of the workings of Williamson County's DA office to know how the office will change when he takes over, Walsh has done enough background work to have two priority goals firmly in mind.

"First of all is that when I'm elected I will be there all the time. Bill Connor was appointed to the job and he already had a good practice, so it's understandable that he wouldn't give up that practice.

"But I will be able to be there full time, as I intend to."

WALSH'S PLANS are to be a full-time district attorney because he thinks the case backlog needs to be reduced — and that's going to be a time-consuming undertaking.

"I have looked at the number of cases over there and there are quite a few pending."

"I expect when I take office I will try to reduce that number."

In addition to keeping the attorney busy full time, the goal should provide a strong background for his upcoming four years in office.

"When I go over in January there are going to be cases pending. It is going to be my job to do something about them. Either you try them or get a guilty plea or dismiss them."

"A good prosecutor has a duty to work these cases. If a case is brought in, he determines whether or not the case is strong enough to seek indictment. There is really no use in a prosecutor asking for an indictment on a case and turning right around a few weeks later and dismissing it."

"What I am going to need to do is get with my complaining witness or the law enforcement official or agency that investigated the case — such as the Department of Public Safety, police departments in the county or the sheriff's department — and just see what their thinking is on it and what evidence we have. In investigating the case you see if the complaining witness still wants to prosecute the case or if he's changed his mind."

"If the prosecutor or the judge feels it's a policy matter, that the thing should be prosecuted, then we're going to subpoena the complaining witness whether he likes it or not, but that's going to hurt our case."

HUMPHREY—HAWKINS HAS BEEN TRIED BEFORE
You're hearing a lot about the new "Humphrey-Hawkins Bill" now before Congress.

Legislation relating to economics frequently sounds so complex that we don't bother to examine it closely until it's too late.

THE HUMPHREY-HAWKINS BILL is called, by its enthusiasts, a full-employment bill.

That can't be bad.

Or can it?

What the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill, as now revised, proposes is that our nation should reduce unemployment to 3 percent within four years.

If the government could not attain that objective through wise monetary and fiscal policy within four years, then the government would have to hire the unemployed.

What constitutes "wise monetary and fiscal policy"?

Sen. Humphrey would probably consider as "wise" a policy of drastic monetary expansion, "tax and spend."

However, history says that such a policy leads to higher interest rates and cheaper dollars.

Obviously, public jobholders have to be paid by the public treasury — which means you, the taxpayer.

IT CAN BE ARGUED that you are already paying the unemployed "for not working"; wouldn't it be preferable to pay them for doing something useful?

You'd think so, except that so-called "made work" always eventuates in paying an army of paper-shufflers and shovellers whose productivity is nil.

That's the big objection to the "new" Humphrey-Hawkins Bill — it's not "new."

Indeed, the Humphrey economic philosophy has been pretested for us in New York City.

A DOZEN YEARS AGO New York City sought to absorb its unemployed by creating 150,000 public jobs. To pay the additional jobholders, taxes were increased.

As the taxes increased, the taxpayers — the "producers" of the city — produced less. Inevitably, jobs are destroyed as taxes go up.

As the producers produce less, unemployment increases. The public program intended to reduce private unemployment had the reverse effect.

Now has public spending been the answer when applied nationally. That same dozen years, our federal government's annual outlay climbed from $100 billion to $400 billion without solving the "unemployment problem."

THE KIND OF LEGISLATION which would really put millions of Americans to work is not likely to be recommended by Humphrey, Hawkins, President Ford or Ronald Reagan.

You and I — who are not running for or from anything — are aware that the root cause of our present 7 million unemployed is that it pays so well.

Livestock show to Taylor?

In a front page editorial in its Wednesday edition, The Taylor Daily Press called for the building of Williamson County's proposed livestock and fair barn in Taylor.

Recently Williamson County commissioners approved spending $100,000 to build a show barn for the Williamson County Livestock and Fair Association which is planning to hold a county-wide livestock show and sale for area youth this year.

In its editorial The Taylor Daily Press pointed out that Taylor is the center of agriculture in Williamson County and that the Taylor stock show and sale in years past has a record of being the biggest show and sale of any in the county.

The Taylor paper bid hard for the project, making comparisons of last year's livestock shows held in Georgetown and Taylor, with Taylor coming out ahead. "The Taylor show and sale brought in over $49,000 this past year, while the Georgetown figure was over $42,000." The significant point about these figures is that considerably more money from East Williamson County was spent in the Georgetown show and sale than West Williamson County money was spent in the Taylor show and sale. By far, most of the money came from Taylor."

Well, that is history.

THE FACT IS, the west end is rapidly emerging as the stronger end of the county. Within a decade, bank deposits and population will tilt heavily westward, many predict, and a livestock show located in Georgetown would probably fare as well or better, even financially, as one located at Taylor. Also, there is the problem of geography: Georgetown, the county seat, is located near the center of the county, Taylor is close to the east end. Young people participating in the Georgetown show travel about 25 miles, at the most, to show their animals. A show in Taylor requires double that travel by the mounting numbers of participants from Florence, Liberty Hill, Leander, Jarrell and points in between.

Taylor is a powerful center of agriculture and has supported the Williamson County Livestock Show in Georgetown very well in the past. Remember that the County Show was in business many years before the Taylor Show began. We question that people over here will simply step aside and see their historic show moved elsewhere.

*This is an error. The correct figure is $47,747.25.

Bond sales total $170,000

Mr. Ray E. Condra, County Chairman for the Savings Bonds Program in Williamson County, reported sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in the amount of $42,768 for April 1976. Sales for the first four months of the year totaled $170,808 which represents 43% of their assigned dollar goal.

Sales in Texas during the month amounted to $21,912.800 while sales for the four-month period totaled $95,165.176 with 35% of the yearly sales goal of $272.4 million achieved.

Young faces in legislative halls

By George B. Merry

Boston
"Young people have a lot to contribute to government," enthuses Steve Duprey. He should know.

At 23, an age when many young Americans are still undecided about careers, the North Conway, New Hampshire, Republican is completing his second two-year term in the State Legislature.

He is one of an increasing number of young Americans running for and winning elective seats in their city and state governments.

In several states officials report that the number of younger legislators has increased markedly since 1972, the first year 18-year-olds became eligible to vote.

In the 100-seat Iowa House of Representatives, for example, lawmakers under age 30 went from less than a dozen in 1971, to 16 in 1973, to 18 at present.

In Washington State's 98-member lower legislative chamber, the under-30 age group tripled from 2 to 6 over the past four years.

In New York, legislators 30 or younger increased from 3 to 7 since 1972.

Fall elections

And even in New Hampshire, where any duly qualified voter can run for the House of Representatives, a would-be state senator must be 30 or over.

Four more of the 19 states in which 18-year-olds can run for seats in the legislature also bar the younger age group from the upper legislative chamber. They are Louisiana, North Carolina, Vermont, and West Virginia.

Growing role seen

Representative Duprey sees young people playing an increasingly important and productive role in state legislatures. "Some day I hope to put together an organization that would go around the country and help young people run for office," he says.

Meanwhile 22-year-old Ronald Flax-Davidson, a former Duprey classmate at New College in Sarasota, Florida, who worked in the 1972 Duprey campaign is running for the Iowa House of Representatives.

Twenty-two-year-old Karen Swanson, youngest member of the Massachusetts Legislature, has combined her lawmaking career with work on a BA degree in politics this year from the University of Massachusetts. The Brockton Democrat won her House seat at age 20, plans to run for a second term. For the past year she has attended classes a couple mornings a week, spending the rest of the day at the State House. "I have learned a lot about how government works . . .," she says.

Asked what it is like to be the youngest member of the Massachusetts Legislature, she responds, "I don't give it much thought. I just do my job."

In Massachusetts at least 40 legislators, one-seventh of the total, are age 30 or under.

States which have no minimum age requirements for candidates to either legislative chamber are California, Hawaii, Idaho, Kansas, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Rhode Island, Washington, and Wisconsin.

'No fund or group above the law'—Pickle

U.S. Rep. J. J. "Jake" Pickle (D-Tex.) stated Tuesday that the "Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) says to enforcing agencies that no fund or group is above the law or immune from the duty to administer its pension consistent only with the well-being of rank and file fund participants."

"My statement is intended to be a firm assertion that no group, no matter how politically powerful, is to say, 'Go to hell,' to any who want to achieve this goal," he continued.

Pickle was luncheon speaker at the Washington Legislative Update session for the 18,000 member International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans. The Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to the education of trustees and professional advisors of labor-management (Taft-Hartley) trust funds, is holding a three-day conference at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Since last November, the Texas Representative has chaired several hearings for the Ways and Means Oversight Subcommittee on ERISA.

Pickle told the program participants that Congressional support for the fundamental concepts of ERISA was still strong.

"You will see a lot of fussin' and fightin' in the coming months. But I think you should not be misled by that," he said.

"In my perception it does not represent a serious erosion of basic congressional support for the fundamentals, for the meat, of the act. What all the fighting will be about will be straightening out the frills and fringe so the law will work more smoothly."

Pickle noted that Ways and Means Oversight work so far dealt only peripherally with multi-employer plan problems, concentrating instead on small plan and individual retirement account issues. "It is important, however, for Ways and Means to get more into multi-employer problems," he said.

Pickle recently received testimony on how certain pre-ERISA loans by the Teamsters Union Central States Pension Fund were possibly out of line with the ERISA prohibited transactions sections. "These sections really are of paramount importance to the success of ERISA, but I am concerned whether all agencies are playing their full role in enforcing them. I know some agencies have moved ahead, but I have little evidence of any action on the part of others. I am inquiring to find out just how much is being done."

requires a lot of transportation. He takes more trips than any other member of the Cabinet. He began traveling just one day after he was sworn into office, and he has been on the road constantly ever since.

From government files, we have obtained the documents on his travels. We have counted 71 separate trips during his first 14 months on the job. The list of places he has visited reads like an atlas -- from Miami to Montreal, from Boston to Los Angeles, from Seattle to New Orleans.

He flies off on the slightest excuse to make a speech, for example, or to pick up a trophy. Wherever he flies, he travels in style in one of the Coast Guard's sleek planes. It costs the taxpayers $532 an hour to keep the secretary in the air.

We tried to get his comment, but he was out of town on another junket. When he returned, he called to say that his trips help him to understand transportation. He uses a Coast Guard plane, he said, to save port.

Why? Because, said the confidential reports, "The natural resources on which the world depends are threatened."

Henry Kissinger, in short, has looked into his crystal ball and seen that the future of Africa is painted black. If we are to remain economically healthy, he has determined, we have to go with the winners.

Ulterior Motives — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's abrupt endorsement of black majority rule in Africa was dictated in part by harsh economic reality.

U.S. trade with African nations is on the upswing. During the recession year of 1974, for example, American imports of raw materials from Africa rose steadily.

State Dept. economists predict, moreover, that Western dependence on African raw materials and markets will continue to grow. Furthermore, U.S. trade with black African nations is increasing, while American business with the white-ruled countries is slowly dwindling.

At the same time, the African continent is in political turmoil. All across Africa, Communist-backed "liberation" movements are fighting for control of governments.

In order to stem this "red tide," Kissinger went to Africa in May and proclaimed a new U.S. African policy which emphasizes "majority rule." This would mean bringing African blacks into the white-controlled governments of Southern Africa.

Kissinger couched his new approach in highly moral tones. But the classified accounts of his trip reveal less honorable motives. According to the secret State Dept. documents, Kissinger was attempting to "organize assistance to African states in return for political support."

Why? Because, said the confidential reports, "The natural resources on which the world depends are threatened."

Henry Kissinger, in short, has looked into his crystal ball and seen that the future of Africa is painted black. If we are to remain economically healthy, he has determined, we have to go with the winners.

Condition Confusion — The brass hats apparently don't know what their own secret code signals mean.

A few days ago, we called the Pentagon to inquire about the meaning of the phrase, "Defense representatives are now held by persons under 30. "When I was in my first term there were only eight of us in this age group, and I was the youngest," Mr. Duprey recalls.

Despite this trend toward younger legislators, constitutional barriers in 31 states still require that lawmakers be at least 21 and in some instances no younger than 25.

And even in New Hampshire, where any duly qualified voter can run for the House of Representatives, a would-be state senator must be 30 or over.

Americans place little prestige on growing older—but a positive attitude about aging relieves concern and anxiety about old age.

Personal matters listed for commissioners' meet

Several personnel matters appear on county commissioners' Monday agenda, including considering a janitorial salary, resignation of systems analyst Dan Jones and hiring replacement personnel in county attorney and central dispatch offices.

Jones, hired under the CETA program in February to replace the county's previous systems analyst, Brian Voss, resigns effective June 30. County Auditor Ben Kurio, under whom Jones worked, has been interviewing applicants to fill the $700-a-month position.

Jim Boutwell, central dispatch supervisor, will present a request to hire a replacement stand-by dispatcher.

"We had one that we knew was just going to be temporarily with us," Boutwell explained. "The stand-by will work one day weekly as well as during full-time employees' holidays, vacations and sick leave."

In addition, a part-time employee will be requested to work in the county judge's office during his secretary's vacation. "When I'm holding court there's no one to answer the phone," said Judge C. L. Chance.

Williamson County Attorney Norman Manning is scheduled to appear before county fathers with two requests in addition to that which would provide his office a secretary to replace Rosaleen Eason, whose Georgetown livestock shows resignation was considered in a into one annual show and fair, called emergency session June met in a called meeting Thursday night, in response to the agenda resolution. Association

Manning will discuss legal status of inquiries into fund transfers and procedure for employing a Vocational Office Education student during the summer.

Stipulation was made that the student would be hired only if paid three-quarters of minimum wage, as VOE students are paid for part-time work during school.

County commissioners had planned to transfer $50,000 from the general fund and $50,000 from the officers salary fund to the general improvements fund in order to meet the county's $100,000 commitment to Williamson County Fair and Show Association directors.

Manning is scheduled to discuss provisions for making the transfers, if they are allowed by statute.

A TAYLOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE resolution to have building plans for the annual county-wide fair and livestock show moved from Georgetown's San Gabriel Park to Taylor was not submitted in time to appear on Monday's agenda. The Taylor Area Chamber of Commerce, meeting in special session Tuesday afternoon, passed a resolution favoring a Taylor location for the show barn.

Members of the newly-formed Williamson County Fair and Show Association, created for the bond on the Catfish Bend Unit of McSheperd Ranch, Inc. will also be considered.

Commissioners will consider advertising for bids for a backhoe and front end loader for Precinct 3 and hold a final hearing on Unit One of the Serenada East Subdivision. Substituting a letter of credit for the bond on the Catfish Bend Unit of McSheperd Ranch, Inc.

will also be considered.

WORKMEN survey the damage and prepare to move the empty tanker in a dry creek bed on IH35 Friday morning. James Demps, the driver of the truck, was unharmed.

No injuries in truck accident

Wet roads in an early morning rain storm gave James Demps of Austin a scary experience Friday, as the Gulf gas transport truck he was driving jackknifed and plunged into a dry creek bed on IH35 about two miles north of Round Rock.

Demp's was southbound on the Interstate about 4 a.m. when the accident occurred, but he was uninjured, though a little shaken up, and was able to walk to a roadside park a few yards away to call and report his problems.

AG CREDIT GOOD IN TEXAS

Agricultural producers in need of financing have a fairly good chance of getting a loan, says an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Money is available and a majority of lenders are actively seeking new farm and ranch loans. In addition, interest rates are down. Loan repayments are generally as good or better than last year, according to a recent survey, and collateral requirements have remained about the same. Most lenders expect agricultural spending to increase in the future. They also see ranchers' incomes increasing but farmers' incomes remaining stable.

Four members of one confirmation class were present. They were Harry Hanson and Charles Hanstrom of Hutto, Mr. Lambert Peterson of Round Rock and Mrs. J. E. Dowdy of Austin. Two members of another class were present, Mrs. L. A. Weber of Round Rock and Mrs. Alex Clarey of Luling. A special guest was H. E. Gainer of Austin. He had served as a trustee and a steward. Gainer is the only person living who served on either board when the church was reorganized in 1939 upon the merger of the three branches of Methodism.

The largest family groups present were those of Mrs. Andrew Franzen, 10; Mrs. Hudson Harkins, 7; and Mrs. Nena Lawhon, 7.

'If only...'

Florence faces football fight

By DAMOND BENNINGFIELD

"You know, we were having a coaches' meeting in here the other day," the young coach was saying as he propped his feet in front of a "MAD CHOPPER" nameplate. "and everything we talked about always had 'if' in front of it. If so-and-so works out at this position, if we don't have too many injuries."

"If — that's it in a nutshell."

Inside that nutshell, Coach Bryan Deady hopes, is a winning Florence Buffalo football team, but cracking the shell will not be an easy job.

There is actually a double shell entrapping a winning team — youth on the outside, with a thick layer of inexperience underneath.

FLORENCE WILL BE losing 10 players from the total of 32 on last year's roster, including its top four scorers, top three rushers, top four receivers, and the team leaders in passing, kick-off and punt returns, interceptions, and fumble recoveries.

The only returning statistical leader will be Jeff Daniell, who led the team in "cause of fumble or interceptions" (6) and "cause of an opponent big loss" (4) categories.

Daniell, a senior guard, also made the 28A All-District Class A All-Central Texas teams.

Daniell and sophomore Johnnny Garza will be the only two returning starters in the offensive line, and Deady hopes they will "help our young offensive linemen."

JOINING THEM IN the line will be Randy Duncan, a tackle who started last year until he was injured; Alan Clark, a 145-pound end who has been an off-and-on starter the last two years; and Ricky Havens, a 170-pound sophomore who will start at end or center.

"Ricky was our center for deep snaps last year, but he had a knee injury running track, so we may move him to end to take some of the pressure off his knee," Deady said, although if Havens' knee heals properly, he could still start at center.

But while the line will have two returning starters to anchor the unit, the backfield will have four starters with little playing experience.

PAUL LEVY IS expected to start at fullback, Tommy Lethoco and Junior Herring at the two halfback spots, and Kyle Futrell will be the quarterback.

Levy and Lethoco will be seniors, while Herring will be entering his junior year, and Futrell will be a sophomore.

None of the four had extensive work with the varsity — most of their playing experience has come with the JV. Lethoco was the leading rusher in the group with only 82 yards.

All four will have to adjust to a lot of running, however, because Deady plans to use a rushing offense — the Wishbone.

But there depth will be a problem, although Deady says "we really don't have the depth in the backfield to run any kind of offense."

"We're actually three deep in all the backfield positions besides quarterback, but that depth is body-wise, not experience-wise."

WITH THE LACK of experience among backup people, Deady is counting heavily on his four starters, and he has confidence in their abilities.

"Kyle Futrell is a very smart quarterback, and he works hard and is a good leader, so I think he will do a good job."

But the biggest question mark is not the offensive line or even the inexperienced backfield — it is the defense.

Only four lettermen will be returning on that unit, including three linemen and one back.

Joe Champlin and Jeff Daniell, both guards, and end Tommy Lethoco will be starting in the line, while Kelly Boggs will be returning as a halfback.

"ALL THE OTHER positions are really kind of up for grabs," he said.

"We really can't say defensively. We'll have to move personnel around after the season starts to see what will work for us, but right now we just don't know."

What he does know is that he is in a tough district.

"We're in one of the toughest Class A districts in Central Texas. No one team dominates," he said.

For this season, he said the team to beat will be Rogers, the defending champion.

"Rogers won it last year, and they are only losing three starters, but Bartlett will have a lot of returning lettermen, so they certainly have the capability to win it, and you can't ever count out Thrall and Thorndale."

GRANGER, THE fifth team in the six team district, will have the biggest team, he said, "so you have four or five teams with the capability of beating each other."

In non-district games, the Buffaloes will be playing two Class A teams and two Class B teams, Salado and Jarrell, who Deady says will be "the closest to rival games we play."

"THERE'S CERTAINLY no love loss between Jarrell and Florence, so they'll be up for us, and it should be about the same with Salado."

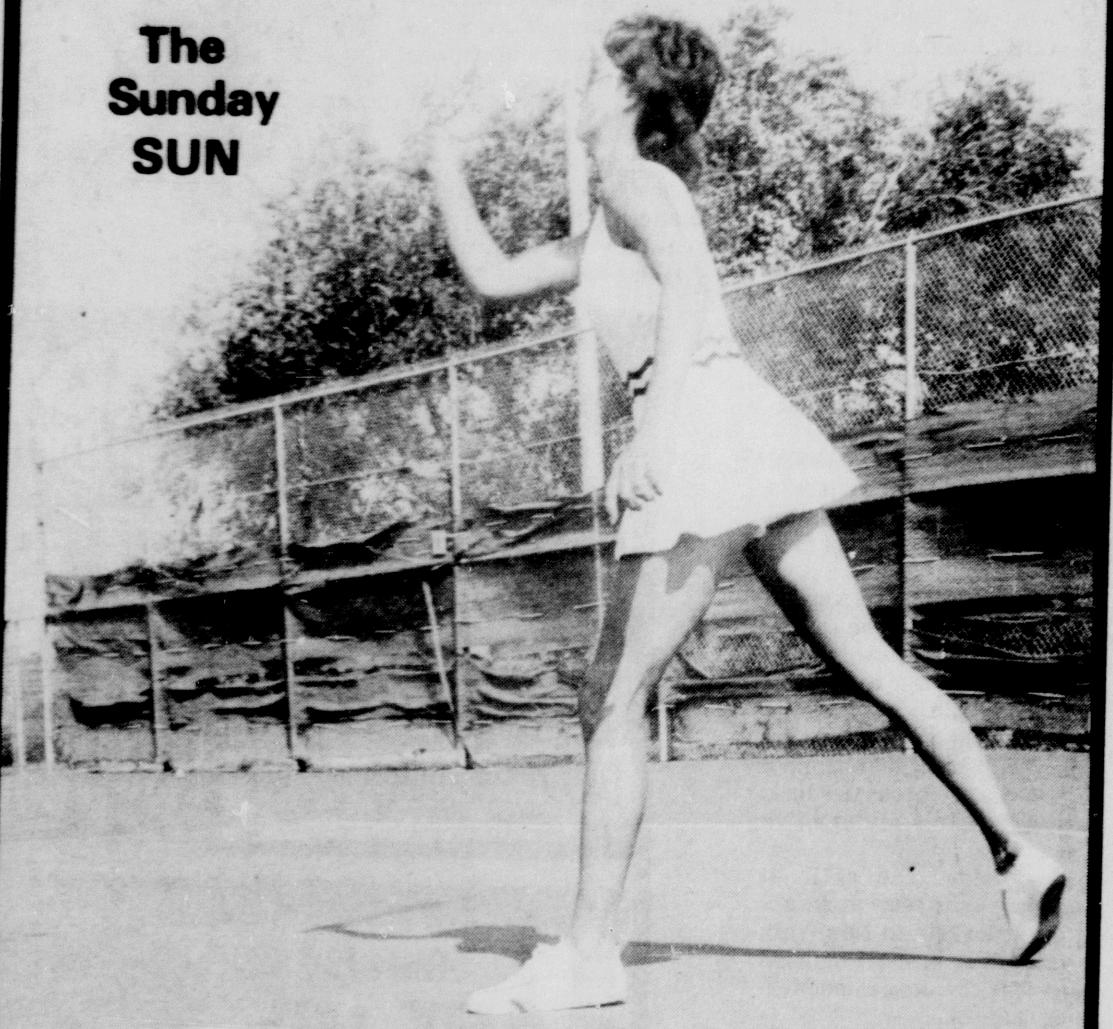

Both could be tough games for Florence, as could the rest of the season — IF the inexperienced Buffaloes don't escape from their nutshell of youth.

Rodeo an all-western affair Excitement, scares at 33rd Sheriff's posse rodeo

Calf ropin', saddle bronc ridin', steer wrestlin', bull ridin' and clownin' round were all part of the first night of the 33rd annual Williamson County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo Thursday night at the San Gabriel Park Arena.

A crowd of about 2,500 turned out to see the first night of the rodeo, and watched as some of the Southwest's best cowboys participated in the mainstays of rodeo competition.

The youngsters in the crowd also got into the act when almost 200 crawled over the railing to join in the calf scramble. None of them caught a calf, but some were dragged around the arena when they tried to hold on to one of the scared little animals.

clowns, distracted the animal long enough for Ashorn to get up and walk away — very fast.

MIKE YOUNG, Stephen-

Western Week

A COUPLE OF the cowboys gave the audience a scare when they were dragged by their bulls in bull riding competition, but none was seriously injured.

Mike Smith of Denver, Colo., got his hand caught in a rope and was spun around several times by the bull, then trampled on by the animal before clowns could rescue him. He was taken to the hospital, but was in good condition.

Bo Ashorn of Houston was thrown by his bull and was stomped several times before David Burnham and Bruce Papon, the two ville, Tex., wasn't feeling too good after his ride, either. Although his bull did not throw him, it spun him in circles well past the eight seconds required of a rider.

Young dismounted his bull in an ungraceful move and staggered away, unhurt but certainly with a queasy stomach.

He led the bull riding event after the first night of competition with a score of 78 of a possible 100 points.

The only local person in the event, John Paxton of Leander, had a score of 72.

Before the bull riding, spectators saw the second performance of the night by Leon Adams of Stewart, Oklahoma. His first appearance was with "The Flying Aces," a pair of horses he rode through a series of drills, including jumping through a burning hoop. The second time around, he did much the same thing — only with a pair of Brhma bulls, Geronimo and Apache.

but he had to take a ten second penalty because he broke from the starting gate too soon.

TOMMY GAILEY, the other Georgetown entry, came up with a "no time" score when he jumped over his steer. The leader of the event was Jackson Bibb of Brownwood, who had a time of 6.5 seconds.

Sonny Victor from Vassilant, Okla., led the calf roping with a time of 17.2, while Georgetown's Randy Stewart took a "no time" when his calf got away.

Jimmie Gibbs from Valley Mills, Tex., took the first night lead in the barrel racing contest, as she had a time of 16.9 seconds, just one-half second ahead of second place Shanna Bush of Mason, Tex.

Bob Barlett aces seventh

Bob Barlett, a member of the Westinghouse golf league, shot a hole-in-one June 21 at the weekly league tournament at the Georgetown Country Club.

Barlett's ace came on the 140 yard, par three seventh hole. He was using a 6 iron for his first ever hole-in-one.

All stars to be named

All-star teams will be announced Monday at 7:30 at the Major League Field in San Gabriel Park.

In addition, all first place team members in each league will receive first place pins.

All-star team members will advance to district competition in late July.

Lawhon Babe Ruth champs Kiwanis eliminated in 12-11 loss

Lawhon Refrigeration won the Georgetown Babe Ruth League title by staying home Thursday night, as the second place team, Kiwanis, was eliminated from the championship picture.

Kiwanis completed a game with Gold's that had to be replayed from the point of a protest in which an umpire made an incorrect decision.

Gold's had originally won the game, but had to go to the bottom of the seventh inning to take this one, 12-11.

Joe Stankey scored the winning run for Gold's, after he walked, advanced to second on a ball the second baseman booted, went to third on a walk by Mike Munoz, and scored on a ground ball by Roger Baker. The attempt to get Stankey at the plate was late, and Kiwanis season had ended.

Kiwanis had scored an unearned run in the top of the seventh to stay alive, but could not retire a batter in the bottom half of the inning.

Stan Smith was the winning pitcher for Gold's, while Dale Barnes was the loser.

STAN SMITH pitches for Gold's Thursday night, in a game he won over Kiwanis 12-11.

CONVENTIONS

WEEKS OF

JULY 12 & AUG. 16

JIM HARTZ and BETTY FURNESS have prominent roles in "Today" program's coverage of the 1976 national political conventions this summer on NBC

"Gorilla," the award-winning wildlife special narrated by David Niven which presents a photographic study of the endangered mountain gorillas of Africa, will be shown on NBC Thursday.

"Gorilla" was filmed in the rain forests of the Kahuzi-Biega National Park in Zaire by Survival Anglia's Dieter Plage, a leading wildlife cinematographer, and his camera assistant, Lee Lyon. It illustrates the work of Belgian-born zoologist Adrien Deschryver, game warden of the park, who has spent years studying habits of mountain gorillas.

"What's Happening," a contemporary half-hour comedy series, is scheduled to premiere Thursday, August 5 on ABC as a four-week summer series.

Ernest Thomas, Haywood Nelson and Fred Berry star, respectively, as Roger, Dwayne and Rerun, three high school kids in a middle-class black neighborhood of a large American city. Roger is a dreamer, yearning to be a writer. Dwayne is the youngest of the trio, a tag-along still striving for "cool," and overweight Rerun is the group's clown, prone to putting his foot in his mouth. Mabel King plays Roger's hardworking, no-nonsense mother, Mrs. Thomas, and Danielle Spencer portrays his pesky little sister, Dee. Shirley Hemphill rounds out the supporting cast as the waitress in the local school hangout. Together they explore the energy and humor of today's urban youth, coping — and hoping — in a constantly changing world.

Exploring East Africa's Ngorongoro Crater, a protected haven for hyenas and other wildlife, Miss Goodall and producer-director-photographer Hugo van Lawick, clear up many of the misconceptions about the hyena — notably that he is a cowardly scavenger. Other revelations are that hyena society is dominated by the larger and more powerful females and that the animals belong to and travel with specific clans.

Miss Goodall focuses her attention on the Lakeside Clan, whose leader, Mizz, mothers two cubs — Willo and Thistle — with the former submissive to its sibling and a source of worry to its strong-willed parent. Mizz rebuffs a maverick hyena, Shadow, and then asserts her leadership when another group, the Scratching Rock Clan, poses a threat to the Lakeside territory. Excitement builds when a confrontation between them appears imminent.

"The Hyena Story," is narrated by Hal Holbrook.

A panel of 13 judges has been named to select Miss Universe 1976 from among some 70 contestants in the "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant," which will be broadcast live via satellite from Hong Kong, Saturday, July 10, on CBS.

The judges for this year's pageant are, in alphabetical order: actress Florinda Bolkan; actress Britt Ekland; dancer Dame Margot Fonteyn; fashion designer Dr. Aldo Gucci; Prince Henri d'Orleans of France; artist Dong Kingman; David Newbigging, senior managing director of Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd.; actress Merle Oberon; film director Roman Polanski; film producer Run Run Shaw of Hong Kong; Margaretha Arvidsson Stupikoff, Miss Universe 1966; actor and former professional football player Fred Williamson; and newspaper columnist Earl Wilson.

For the tenth consecutive year, television personality Bob Barker will serve as master of ceremonies, and singer Helen O'Connell will be the pageant's television hostess.

"The Bell Telephone JUBILEE" special hosted by Bing Crosby and Liza Minnelli, which puts the accent on entertainment on the occasion of the first 100 years of the telephone, will be colocean again on NBC Wednesday, Sept. 8.

Guest stars performing in the musical include Roy Clark, Joel Grey, Marvin Hamlisch, Ben Vereen, Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme.

Segments of past performances by Louis Armstrong, Pablo Casals, Maurice Chevalier, Rudolph Nureyev, Harry Belafonte, Ray Bolger, Lena Horne, Robert Preston, Ethel Merman, Fred Astaire, Erroll Garner, Benny Goodman, Gene Krupa, Andre Previn, Peggy Fleming, David Oistrakh and his son Igor, the Georgian Dancers, Burl Ives, the Kingston Trio, the New Christy Minstrels, Johnny Cash, Les Paul & Mary Ford, Andres Segovia, Anthony Newley, Edward Villella, Marge and Gower Champion, Donald O'Connor, Joan Sutherland, Julie Andrews, Carl Sandburg and Mahalia Jackson will also be televised.

"Goldenrod," a special two-hour film from the novel of the same name by Herbert Harker, is currently in production on location in Alberta, Canada.

Tony LoBianco heads the cast as a championship rodeo performer whose career is jeopardized after an accident in the arena. Gloria Carlin portrays his wife who dreams of a permanent home of her own, and brothers Andrew and Will Darrow McMillan portray their sons. Donald Pleasance stars as a rancher who befriends LoBianco and his sons when the going gets rough, and Donnelly Rhodes is spotlighted as a rancher-rival of LoBianco's in the arena as well as domestically.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 20
It's a good idea to begin organizing things. Though you're ambitious you would do well to cultivate more confidence in yourself.

PISCES Feb. 20-Mar. 20

June 29, and continue through June 30, to establish a set of goals they wish to accomplish during the coming years.

School personnel are also preparing a set of objectives for a Texas Education Agency (TEA) workshop which has an August 1 deadline.

The Tuesday workshop was timed to give the administration time to take board members' input into account for the TEA study.

Curriculum will be a major topic of discussion by board members, as will guidelines for the selection of a new superintendent.

Action on selection guidelines, although on the agenda for Tuesday night's meeting, was tabled until the workshop after a heated exchange between board members David Kirkland and Betty Buford. Buford had asked to postpone establishment of selection criteria, a move Kirkland opposed.

"I already know what I want in a superintendent," he said. "I don't have to wait a week."

"All right, expert," Buford replied. "maybe we should have you on the board alone."

"Well, don't you know what you want in a superintendent? I do," Kirkland said.

Despite Kirkland's objections, action was tabled, 5-1, with Kirkland casting the only negative vote.

He had already proposed several criteria for selection, including a suggestion that any superintendent have several years of experience in an "open school" program.

"Now I don't mean an open classroom situation, that is not necessarily the same thing," he said. "But I would like someone who has a philosophy of open education."

Buford had questioned that qualification, saying the open school philosophy was relatively new and it might be hard to find anyone with the necessary background in that system.

Kirkland dismissed that objection, however, saying the past superintendent and one of the principals now in the system had experience in that program and finding others should be no problem.

He also suggested that applicants come from at least a 2A school, and have served as a superintendent, not an assistant.

"With our particular district and our complete lack of organization," he explained after the board meeting, "we need someone with some experience who is qualified to come into this muddled mess and try to pick it up."

"There are a lot of stumbling blocks here," and we don't need to try to break-in a new person in this situation."

Another of his suggestions was that applicants have a PhD, or be enrolled in a PhD program.

Board members also received a letter from the engineering firm of Lockwood, Andrews and Newnam on an on-site inspection of three system buildings — the old high school the metromech building, and the new high school arcade.

The firms said the old high school was "basically sound," although mechanical and electrical systems, not covered by their study, need to be evaluated as well. They recommended repairs to the roof of the cosmetology building to correct "excessive deflection of 2 x 4's" in the roof. Repairs, which would include installation of a double 2x10 beam, would cost an estimated $1,000.

The high school arcade, although sound structurally, could "create a dangerous situation" if current deterioration is allowed to continue. Cost of repairing the arcade, which would include installation of two new air conditioning units, would be about $9,200, the firm said.

Trustees instructed engineers to draft preliminary plans for a sewer system, and to apply to the federal government for funds, which they believe will be about 75 per cent of the total cost.

In personnel matters, the board accepted the resignation of Lindsay Kay Holt, a high school Spanish teacher, and reaffirmed the administration's authority to reassign personnel to different duties or different campuses.

Forswall named NT honor student

Jessamy T. Forswall of 1202 E. University Ave. in Georgetown has been named to the spring semester honor roll at North Texas State University in Denton.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess A. Todd of Georgetown, Jessamy posted a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 to win an honor roll position.

Dr. Miles Anderson, interim vice-president for academic affairs, named a total of 1,334 to the spring honor roll. Some 1,003 NTSU students achieved the 3.5 listing, which includes those students whose grade average is midway between an "A" and a "B".

St. Helen's plans fall festival

Following an all-parish meeting, the congregation of St. Helen's Catholic Church in Georgetown decided to have an all-day Fall Festival this fall. The announcement was made by the Rev. Al Palermo, pastor of St. Helen's.

The Festival will be held in the Georgetown Community Center in San Gabriel Park on Sunday, September 26, according to Father Palermo.

The occasion will begin with a barbecue meal at noon with various booths, games and an auction. Hamburgers and sausage will be served for the evening meal concluding with a dance at night.

Over-all chairman is Larry Reeder, who will be assisted by the church board.

Other chairmen are as follows: Mrs. Martha Martinka, noon meal; Richard Nemec, evening meal; Bob Hogg, raffle; Mrs. Sylvia Walker and Mrs. Georgia Howry, auction; Domingo Bracamontez, games; Larry Reeder, dance; Herb Werchan, ticket sales; Henry Vasquez, booths; and Herb Hanson, publicity.

2 CBs stolen Saturday night

Two citizens band radios were stolen within a few hours of each other last Saturday night, as both Don Gode and Claude Ramsey of Georgetown were victimized.

Gode reported his CB was stolen from the Emerald Apartment parking lot at 806 E. 13th street between 5 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday. The radio, a Lafayette 23 channel, was valued at $225.

Ramsey's radio was taken sometime before 1:15 a.m. Saturday. Officer Zefrin Kocian said he observed a door on Ramsey's pickup was open while he was patrolling Saturday morning, and upon inspection of the truck by Koicain and Ramsey's son, they discovered the CB, a Cobra 132 valued at $320, was missing. Kocian said there was no sign of forced entry into the pickup.

Ikat gives blurry finish

Ikat, a popular fashion term, is an Indonesian word for warp printing. Warp threads are dyed before being put on the loom, producing an irregular, blurry look in the finished fabric. This process, called kasuri in Japan, is a traditional method of textile design in ancient civilizations and can still be found in South America.

Alton (Bo) Stearns is baptized on Father's Day by the Rev. Al Cummins, pastor of First Baptist Church, in the San Gabriel River. Pastor Cummins' son, Jimmy, serves as 'helper.' According to his dad, "he keeps them from floating away." In the second picture, Stearns is immersed, with the words "...buried with Christ in baptism..." and in the third photo, "...raised to walk in the newness of life." Four other persons were baptized Sunday in the centuries-old ceremony symbolic of birth, death and resurrection of Christ.

SEAT BELTS SAVE LIVES — One out of every four drivers in the U.S. will have a traffic accident in 1976. Due to this high possibility for traffic accidents, Americans should take the precaution of wearing seat belts when driving, emphasizes an agricultural safety engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. From 10,000 to 15,000 lives a year could be saved if everyone used seat belts while driving. Good vehicle maintenance is also important in preventing accidents. More standardized equipment and safer design of highways could also cut down on traffic accidents.

RABIES CASES DOWN — Despite numerous rabies cases in animals, the dreaded disease is generally a thing of the past as far as human infections are concerned. This is due mainly to the vaccination of pet dogs and cats, contends a veterinarian for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. This has protected pet populations, particularly from contracting the disease from wild animals. Although 3,200 cases of rabies were confirmed in animals in the U.S. in 1974, none were recorded in humans for the first time in history. Texas was the leading state with 396 cases of rabies, with wild animals accounting for 256 of the cases.

NEW EXTENSION AG ENGINEER — Richard E. Withers Jr., is the newly appointed agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He will give leadership to educational programs related to farm and ranch structures, buildings and processing systems. Withers, a native of Beaumont, has been on the staff of the Department of Civil Engineering at Texas A&M University for the past nine years. He also served with the Soil Conservation Service for six years.

Until next year

Sun sets on Western Week

With a whinny and a whoop Western Week came to a halt Saturday night with the final performance of the Sheriff's Posse rodeo, the last Sheriff's Posse dance, and the final spin of the Ferris wheel at the carnival.

The weekend of out-west style entertainment began Thursday afternoon with a parade through downtown Georgetown that featured hundreds of horses, bunches of city and county officials, and a whole lot of pretty girls.

The Georgetown Eagle band supplied the music for the parade, and a rifle drill team got the loudest, longest, and from some people, the only applause in the procession.

Activities moved to San Gabriel Park with the 33rd annual Sheriff's Posse Rodeo Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, as the oldest of all sports from the old west drew several thousand to the arena each night.

Brone riding, steer riding, barrel races and the imitable rodeo clowns provided the action, laughs and heart-stopping moments for the rodeo fans.

After the rodeo, it was just a gallop to the Community Building and some of that good ol' country music. Tommy Allen and the Brazos Sounds, Shirley Hester and the Country Blues brought the guitar pickers, fiddle players, and country singers to Georgetown dancers.

During it all, there were thrills at the C&R Shows Carnival, as the kids and old-timers alike were entertained by all the usual carnival rides and attractions.

Yep, it's over for another year, but that western atmosphere and all the activities will be back again for another Georgetown western week.

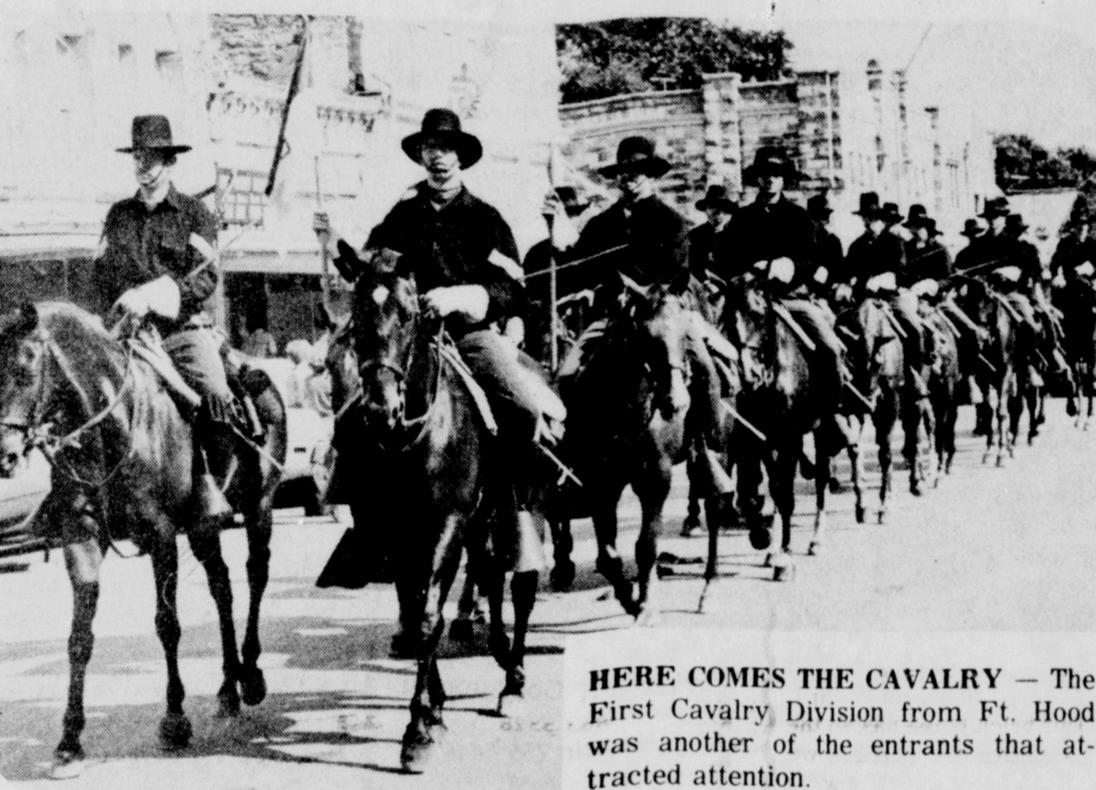

HERE COMES THE PARADE — These two girls have a close up view of the parade from their corner perch.

OUTTA AIR — Vaughn Henderson ran out of air — or at least his tire did — just as the parade got off to a good healthy start.

HERE COMES THE CAVALRY — The First Cavalry Division from Ft. Hood was another of the entrants that attracted attention.

SMILES FOR THE CROWD — The Georgetown Chamber of Commerce float, carried recently elected Miss Georgetown, Miss Lisa DeWitt, and runners up, Misses Linda Kotrla and Miss Donna Wiggins.

AMERICAN SALUTE — Riding the Jarrell FHA float, entitled America—The Dream That Came True, were Helen Havelka, Susan Havelka, Earline Arldt, Kathy Nemec and Nancy Barker.

RNITURE CO

OLDEST MAN IN THE COUNTY — Mr. and Mrs. William A. Howell rode in an old horse-drawn buggy, similar to the one used when they wed. Howell is deemed the oldest man in the county at 101.

RABBIT HILL CIRCUS — Preschoolers at Rabbit Hill Kountry Kindergarten, dressed in wild animal attire, rode in a circus wagon.

GISD trustees consider bids for heating

Georgetown Independent School District trustees will meet at 7 p.m. June 28 in the high school conference room to open bids for replacing the heating system at the Primary School.

At the last school board meeting, trustees decided that the heating system was insufficient to carry through another winter, following a report made by the Primary School Principal Merritt Romans.

Brasher-Goyette-Rapier architectural firm in Austin drew up plans for revamping the heating system. Work, planned for completion before the fall semester will begin as soon as bids are accepted.

BIDS FOR CAFETERIA supplies and gasoline will also be opened at Monday night's meeting.

Trustees will select an auditing firm to review the school books for the past school year. The fiscal year ends August 31.

Mrs. Donna Gage, new curriculum director, will report to the trustees about the goals for school accreditation.

The Texas Association of School Boards will report on writing-school policy.

Trustees will discuss whether or not to allow a co-op class between the high school and Southwestern University. Several students who have requested that German be taught at the high school will be asking to be released for one period to attend a college German class, since not enough high schoolers to form a GHS class were interested.

In executive session trustees will discuss the employment of teachers, resignation of three teachers and a one-year leave of absence for one teacher, due to her pregnancy.

★ Georgetown Fair & Show

The Fair and Show Association meeting was called to consider the Taylor resolution, submitted with two private letters endorsing a switch to Taylor, and to set a date for inspecting show barns in Burnet and Lampasas.

"WE DIDN'T CHANGE ANYTHING," reported Carl Lidell, one of the two Georgetown directors on the Fair and Show board. Daniel Richter is the other Georgetown representative. Calvin Rinn of Thrall is board director.

"The directors of our Williamson County Fair and Show Association continued on the same course they had been taking by telling the Taylor group that at our first meeting we had a motion that we would ask the county commissioners for money to build in Georgetown, and that was still our plan."

"We felt like the board of directors represents the county; since it's composed of two men from Georgetown, two men from Taylor and a member from each school district in the county, we didn't represent Georgetown or Taylor either one."

"Whether Taylor will come up with something else now, I don't know. Unofficially they said they thought they could build a building in Taylor with private money. They have $20,000 raised so far. We told them if they did, that would be fine; our group would go ahead with our plans." Fifteen Association members include representatives from Florence, Jarrell, Liberty Hill, Leander, Bartlett, Granger, Hutto, Thrall, Thorndale, Coupland and Round Rock.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS contacted favored the stance taken Thursday by the Fair and Show directors.

"I think here's where it ought to be, in the county seat," stated Precinct 1 Commissioner Wesley Johnson of Georgetown. "I don't think they are going to change it. We've put it on the minutes for here and I think that's where it will be."

April 26, 1976, minutes of Williamson County Commissioners' Court include the item stating: "Calvin Rinn, Carl Lidell, Billy Banks appeared in reference to the Williamson County Fair and Livestock Show Ass'n in regard to a new building to be built in Georgetown. Motion was made by Wesley O. Foust to assure the association that the Court will provide some financial assistance to the association. Motion carried by unanimous vote of the Court." Commissioners later voted a one-time $100,000 appropriation for the building.

"I didn't put the location in my motion," recalled Liberty Hill's Commissioner Wesley Foust. "I was assured that it would be built here. The old east versus west is gone — but it seems like it's been revived, doesn't it?"

"EVERYONE KNOWS my feeling: that is the only place. It should be in the county seat."

"You've got to admire those people for wanting it down there, but Georgetown is the logical place for it. This is the county seat; this is where it should be."

"We had to pull money out in the past and if it gets to be a political thing we'll do it again."

I believe the commissioners thought that it had already been agreed on," County Judge C. L. Chance, who presides at all commissioners' meetings said, adding that the Taylor proposal to move the building site "came as a surprise to everyone."

"I feel like the county will have to own the building. I think the legal possibility exists that the county can participate in or own that type of facility because most counties do. We are one of the few ones that do not."

"This building will be built to the specifications of the livestock group, but the building will be held by Williamson County," Lidell said in separate conversation. "Probably a 99-year lease will be issued by the Livestock Association one week out of the year."

But, asked what effect a new building in Taylor would have on plans to unite the Taylor and Georgetown shows into one combined fair and sale, Lidell said, "I can't answer that right now. First of all, we don't know if they are going to build. That would defeat the purpose of our group and probably would cancel the agreement with the Williamson County Livestock Association that they and Taylor would have only one show."

Gabriel Park. Then at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, the Williamson County Baptist Association will sponsor Super Service '76 in the Sheriff's Posse Rodeo Arena in the park.

Jeannie C. Riley and Dr. Homer Martinez will be on hand for the big religious service, as well as a host of other well-known personalities and ministers.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON in the park should have something for just about everyone.

The National Bell Ringing, which commemorates the hour the original Liberty Bell rang out for independence, will commence at 1 p.m., followed by a Pet Parade, a Tug 'o War, a Spittin' and Whittlin' Contest, puppet shows, and fire engine rides.

A music show beginning at 3 p.m. will feature two quartets and the new Georgetown Community Band in concert.

At 7 p.m., "The Music Man" will play in the Community Building, along with two cartoons.

Finally, the Bicentennial July 4 will wind up Sunday night at 9:30 p.m. with a spectacular fireworks display in San Gabriel Park which no one should miss. It should be hard to miss, in fact, considering the huge show planned.

For a handy clip-out schedule of the week's events with a brief description of each activity, see page 8 of today's SUN Spots, the SUN's weekly entertainment guide.

And watch next Thursday for more information about Bicentennial Week, with a weekend schedule, times, places, and admission information.

important considerations when bond is set.

"If he's indigent and the judge feels he cannot afford counsel then an attorney should be appointed as soon as possible.

"The county's having to pay all this money to keep them there. I am in favor of appointing an attorney and if the man can't get out on bond, give those cases where the defendant is in jail the highest priority as far as a hearing date.

"That's the way they do it in Travis County, I know. They refer to them as 'jail cases' and they always set them within two weeks to be tried.

"A lot of times it is going to be beyond the state's control to speed these things up. The defense lawyers procrastinate. But when you can, try to get to these cases as quickly as possible and not say, 'Why, that's fine,' and let them sit in jail a year before they are tried.

"That's not good for the defense, it's not good for the county or for anybody."

And that's not what Edward Walsh is after, because he plans to work to be very good for the county.
